

T.O. 2 Northeast Corridor (NEC)

The Northeast Corridor (NEC) is the rail backbone of the Northeast region and the busiest passenger rail corridor in the United States. The 457-mile corridor connects eight states and the District of Columbia and each day serves 750,000 riders and 2,000 commuter, intercity, and freight trains.

New York City is currently home to some of the largest infrastructure and development projects in the country. The construction techniques are unique and the emphasis on coordination amongst the railroads and project partners is key in managing heavy construction while limiting impact to railroad operations.

Further emphasis on the regional coordination is highlighted through the work of the NEC Infrastructure & Operations Advisory Commission (www.nec-commission.com) and through NEC FUTURE, a comprehensive program being led by the FRA to develop a long-term vision and phased improvements for the NEC (www.necfuture.com).
